

As a member of the association community, we strongly urge the FCC to reconsider new regulations governing unsolicited fax advertisements for the following reasons: removing the "established business relationship" qualification from the fax regulations is absolutely bad for business, forcing associations and other companies to obtain the written consent of their own members, clients and industry partners before transmitting any fax that could be interpreted as commercial in nature; and, the association community has already raised numerous concerns about the new regulations that remain a subject of speculation, including exactly which transmissions the FCC would interpret as commercial in nature, whether written consent to a national association would extend to chapter or affiliate faxes, and whether a written consent form would expire with membership, for example.

These new rules would impact our specific industry or profession as well.

Thank you for your consideration.

Mike Dwyer, CAE
NARSA Executive Director